To Whom It May Concern,

I am extremely pleased to write this letter of recommendation for Sherry Randall. Sherry and I worked collaboratively at CSC Management over the course of the year in a leadership capacity, and I found her to be a conscientious and very hard working professional.

One of the main reasons that Sherry and I have been successful coworkers on almost every project that the company has been entrusted with is her ability to delve into details. In her role as Regional Manager for Texas Region of CSC Management, she came across many challenges; with ambiguous goals and consistently moving targets. Sherry continued to navigate the waters of a growing company with ease and a professional and enthusiastic attitude. She has never been shy of asking for help and takes constructive criticism quite well.

Sherry's interpersonal style is a collaborative one who believes in positive motivation of her staff is never dissatisfied under her supervision. I would describe Sherry as a dedicated and enthusiastic individual who has a great penchant for meeting deadlines, and installing lasting policies and procedures to help a growing organization become more institutionalized. Her capacity for taking on large projects is almost unconstrained, with Sherry managing over 15 assets and a team of roughly 20 employees through Texas within the first 90days.

She has been a pleasure to work alongside, and I fully recommend Sherry for any organization she chooses to join in the future. Should you have any further questions or want to discuss in further detail, please feel free to contact me below.

Best Regards,

Re: Letter of Reference for Sherry Randall

To Whom It May Concern:

Ms. Randall was hired to manage our customer relations department with a special new product promotion for our company. With her direction, and attention to detail, the promotion was a complete success, with final results well beyond my expectations.

Her responsibilities included the following: complete new company website design and maintenance, design and printing of all product brochures, design of all patient data forms and promotional items, design of product advertising layouts for periodicals, designed artwork and layout for custom paint jobs for customer wrist braces and the management of the human resources/payroll department.

I would highly recommend Ms. Randall to any prospective employer. She performed an excellent job and was very instrumental in the outcome of this special project. Ms. Randall would be a valuable addition to any company she worked for and would be gladly welcomed back to this company if the situation arose. Re: The Employment of Sherry Bridges

When looking for an Assistant Manager I called Sherry and asked if she would be interested in the job. Sherry had been a voice that I had relied on for over a year and that I talked to regularly, for she had been a dependable person that worked at the Answering Service that answered my phone when I was out of the office.

I thought of Sherry because of her wonderful telephone techniques. She had always been courteous, dependable, and had shown a special concern in her job.

When I met Sherry she was as friendly as I thought she might be. I found her to be very personable and easy to communicate with. Sherry has always shown that she has many fine qualities from clerical practices to management skills.

Sherry has been employed by me and my company since November of 1988. She has been a dependable, responsible, and a very valuable employee. I highly recommend Sherry and believe her to be an asset to any employer.

Sincerely,

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

It has been my professional and personal pleasure to have worked with Sherry Bridges during my employment with Mobile Nurses, Inc. At the time of my employment, Sherry was employed with Nacogdoches Answering Service.

Sherry was responsible, in part, for relaying any message to me while I was out of the office. She was very efficient, accurate and courteous. In a business dealing with the public on a daily basis, it was imperative for me to be able to depend to a great degree, on Sherry's knowledge and professionalism. Many times when an emergency situation emerged, Sherry went that extra mile to notify me, even to the extent of learning my routine and tracking me down. Sherry continuously personified the exemplary employee. I would consider anyone choosing to employ Sherry, very fortunate.

Sincerely,

Cynthia D. Lawson
Administrative Coordinator

Sherry Randall, a former student of mine, expects to complete her degree in Business Administration with a double major in Computer Information Systems and Management within the year. She has also visited with me on an informal basis regarding her career plans. Based upon my numerous interactions with Sherry over the last year, and the fact that I have had the opportunity to observe her performance in class, I believe I am well suited to assess her potential as an employee.

Sherry is an exceptional individual who brings more to an employer than what is typically associated with a recent graduate. She is highly motivated, results oriented, and career focused. Academically, Sherry is a perfectionist, hard working, willing to accept leadership on group assignments, and has been one of my best students. Her demonstrated skills in writing and speaking are extremely noteworthy. Sherry was required to make a presentation in my human resource management class on a topic she selected. She was well prepared, articulate, knowledgeable, and presented her talk enthusiastically. Members of the audience were very impressed with her ability to capture their interest throughout her talk. In addition, Sherry has consistently demonstrated insight and creative problem solving ability in attacking the required assignments in my class.

Sherry also brings impressive work experience to a potential employer. She worked as a Technical Support Staff for Synaps Corporation using both technical and interpersonal skills. She has also had managerial experience working for Woodforest Apartments where she supervised others and had a variety of discretionary responsibilities. Sherry understands what it takes, and what is necessary, to be an effective employee.

The reason Ms. Randall is exceptional is not only her substantial work experience and excellent academic credentials, but also her outstanding interpersonal skills. Ms. Randall displays high levels of honesty and integrity that others appreciate. She has the unique ability to accomplish goals working with others. Sherry is very outgoing, friendly, and also dedicated to task accomplishment. Her combined educational and work experiences will be tremendous assets to any employer.

In short, Ms. Sherry Randall has impressed me as a highly motivated and effective individual. She has carefully assessed her career goals, evaluated her career opportunities, and has taken decisive action to enhance her career success. I believe Sherry is an outstanding individual who will be a valued asset to the organization she chooses to work for. For the many reasons stated, I give Sherry my highest recommendation. Feel free to call me at (936) 468-1580 for any questions regarding this reference letter.

Re: Recommendation Letter for Ms. Sherry Randall

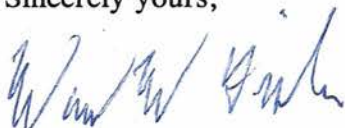

To Whom it May Concern:

Sherry Randall was a student in my MGT 472 (Management Information Systems) course in the summer of 2001. The class was relatively verbal in nature, with a strong emphasis on the managerial implications of computerized information systems. E-mail and the Internet were used frequently, and students prepared individual web pages. Ms. Randall was never absent, always arrived prepared, and contributed frequently and effectively to class discussions. Her web page demonstrated originality, eye-catching style, and close attention to detail. She also worked as part of a team to prepare an oral presentation and a term paper that were both outstanding in quality. Overall, her performance in the class was outstanding, earning a grade of "A" and the highest average in a class of 27.

In conversations with Ms. Randall both inside and outside class, I have found her to be inquisitive, articulate, and respectful. In particular, she knows a good bit about computers, and she is always eager to learn more. Her grades have been consistently excellent (cumulative GPA of 3.669) while pursuing a challenging double major in Computer Information Systems and Management. She has also accumulated about twelve years of experience as a manager, and her resume indicates an ample list of extra-curricular activities.

In summary, Ms. Randall clearly has the capacity and motivation to be highly successful in any endeavor she chooses. She has my highest possible recommendation.

To Whom It May Concern:

I have had the opportunity to have Sherry Randall in several of my upper level management and Marketing classes at Stephen F. Austin State University and would like to strongly recommend her as a potential employee. Her overall performance in my class has been outstanding and she has consistently demonstrated exceptionally articulate written and oral communication skills. I have observed Sherry in team problem solving situations and have been consistently impressed with both her leadership abilities and her problem solving skills. She is a strong student with excellent learning abilities who has maintained a very high average in a difficult major, indicating a strong level of commitment to success.

Sherry Randall presented what I consider to be the very best student presentation that I have observed in my twelve years on the faculty here at S.F.A. I consider her to be one of my finest students, she has an excellent mastery of both academic and interpersonal skills. She is impressive in a variety of ways, and I am confident in recommending her that she would be a valuable asset to your organization.

To Whom It May Concern,

It is a pleasure for me to write a letter of recommendation for Ms. Sherry Randall. I have known Ms. Randall for about two years. She was a student in two of my upper-level finance classes. In both classes, she exhibited a level of academic maturity far above that of her college peers. She was very dedicated to her studies and proved to be an excellent student. She ranks in the top two percent of all of the finance students that I have taught over my career. She has been named to both the College of Business Dean's list and the College of Business President's List. It has been an honor to have such a wonderful student in my class.

In addition to her academic skills, Ms. Randall has valuable work experience. Her experience demonstrates that she is capable of handling varied work environments and has numerous work related skills. I am confident that Ms. Randall will be successful in any challenge that she accepts. She has a very pleasant and positive personality. Ladies and Gentlemen

I would like to take this opportunity to recommend Sherry Randall to you. Sherry was enrolled in my BCM 247 Business Communications class and then several semesters later in my GBU 310 Word Processing class. Sherry was an excellent student in both classes.

I was first impressed with Sherry when her team in Business Communications turned in its first assignment. The formatting and content was far ahead of that of the other teams. I came to realize that Sherry was responsible for her team's high standard of performance. This standard continued throughout the semester. Sherry seemed to have an excellent rapport in her team projects and everything was completed in a timely manner. In GBU 310 Sherry continued to impress with her attention to detail and her interest in learning how to effectively use the software. Again, her team rapport was very good.

Sherry is conscientious and serious about her work, but she also has a sense of humor and is pleasant to have around. She is not afraid to tackle a demanding assignment. She has a maturity that many other graduates will not be able to match. If I had the opportunity to hire an employee, Sherry would be at the top of the list. I am sure she will use the skills that helped her excel in my classes in any job that she chooses to undertake.

Should you need additional information, I will be happy to visit with you about Sherry. My office number is 936 468-1496 and my e-mail is mbayless@sfasu.edu.

To whom it may concern:

I am pleased to write this letter of reference for Sherry Randall. Although not an accounting major, Sherry succeeded in my financial accounting principles class in an exemplary way.

Sherry is a very capable, conscientious, motivated, and self-disciplined individual. She always punctually attended class, was thoroughly prepared for class, and actively participated in class activities and discussions. Sherry's quest for knowledge introduced to-the-point questions that were a testament to her academic dedication and inquiry.

The combination of her employment background and academic minor in management make her chosen field of computer systems management more impressive. Sherry has displayed initiative, dedication, and academic focus as only a top student can. These are characteristics that should transfer into the computer systems management work environment and serve her, in addition to future employers, well in her career.

Please feel free to contact me if I can be of further help.

Dear Sir or Madame:

I am writing this letter on behalf of my former student and true friend, Ms. Sherry Randall. Ms. Randall has taken several college courses with me and is an exemplary student. She took freshman composition courses with me. In both classes, she was not only the top student, but she also did so with grace and style, writing beautiful essays along with fantastic participation and enthusiasm. Her high performance was nothing short of amazing, and I firmly believe that Ms. Randall is well suited for any career position due to the seriousness with which she approaches all tasks.

Ms. Randall has other attributes. She is well spoken, thoughtful, and earnest in her approach to her classroom assignments and responsibilities. These abilities will be very beneficial in whatever she decides to do in the future. In eighteen years of teaching, I have never had the experience of teaching and working with such a dedicated individual. Ms. Randall is definitely the best student I have taught.

Finally, I must say that Ms. Randall has had a focused academic agenda and high educational goals. She is quite capable of achieving and succeeding in any professional field. She makes me proud to have known her, and she will bring great talent to any work place. I have been requested by Ms. Sherry Randall to furnish a few comments about her to prospective business associates. I not only can, but also am delighted to do so on her behalf.

Ms. Randall was my student in a course of Business Law, which I taught during the Fall Term of 2000 at Stephen F. Austin State University. She was an excellent student! On four examinations, with a possible maximum score of 400, she obtained an unusual score 396. [Out of 200 actual questions, she missed only two of them.]

Her score for a series of unannounced quizzes was above average. Her attendance was perfect in that she did not miss a single class session. Needless to say, she was an "A" student. All in all, Ms. Randall was an exceptional student and will be an asset with whomever she works.

To whom it may concern:

It is indeed a pleasure to write a letter of recommendation for Ms. Sherry Randall. I consider Ms. Randall to be an exemplar of the characteristics that university faculty desire their students possess.

I had the opportunity to teach Ms. Randall in two courses: Math 220 (Introduction to Probability and Statistics) and Statistics 320 (Statistical Methods). Her performance in both of these courses was truly exceptional. As a result of taking these courses, she has a sound well based knowledge of statistical methods and their applications. Furthermore, Ms. Randall possesses an enviable knowledge of computer statistical software, such as SAS, and the insight as to how to make the most efficient use of these tools in mathematical (statistical) reasoning and problem solving.

Ms. Randall is a very intelligent, highly motivated person that takes pride in doing quality work. She is a very amiable and affable individual with a pleasant personality. Her performance in group activities in my classes demonstrated to me that she works well with others.

Ms. Randall has been a stellar student at Stephen F. Austin State University and I am confident she will continue to perform at an exceptional level in whatever career she selects. If I may be of further assistance, please feel free to contact me.

To Whom It May Concern:

The purpose of this letter is to recommend Ms. Sherry Randall for employment in any position for which she is qualified. Ms. Randall's major is not my area of expertise, so my recommendation for her is based on having her in one mathematics course and my knowledge of her ensuing progress toward a degree.

I first met Ms. Randall when she enrolled in Math 099, Intermediate Algebra, which I taught in the 1997 fall semester. As the semester got under way, it was clear to me that she was very bright but she was struggling in the course. She was frustrated with the course materials and with me. However, as the semester progressed, she realized the course was something that was worth her effort and realized that I was not her enemy but that I was challenging her to perform at a level commensurate with her talents. From that point to then end of the course, her attitude changed and there was no problem too tough for her to handle. I was truly impressed with her tenacity, work ethic, and the pure joy she was experiencing in her success. She made an A in the course. She followed this course with two B's and an A in the three mathematics courses required for her major.

Although I had Ms. Randall in only that one course, I have kept up with her and her progress toward a degree since she left my course. As evidenced in her transcript, she has done an outstanding job in completing her degree.

Since I have known Ms. Randall, I have found her to be a quality individual with a willingness to work hard to succeed. She has a pleasing personality, a good sense of humor, and is pleasant company. I know she will be an asset in any organization due to high level of expertise in her field and the quality of her character that will infect those in her workplace. She has my highest recommendation with no reservation.

If you need additional information, please feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,

Jasper E. Adams
